Pointed Paragraphs.

From the Chicago News.

Never judge a woman by the lightness of her hair.

Running for office costs almost as much as running an automobile.

If gray hairs were a sign of wisdom, fewer men would have them.

Our idea of a charming woman is one who is ignorant of her charms.

When a man has a good job he should take out a fire insurance policy.

The better acquainted a man is with himself the harder it is to fool him.

Figures may not lie, but they are capable of being juggled by crooked accountants.

Some men do not care to take vacation trips because their wives insist on going along.

When a woman is talking she dislikes to be interrupted as much as a man does when he is eating.

The average woman seems to think that all her husband's good qualities are due to her influence.

You may have noticed that one girl no sooner breaks a man's heart than another comes along and bandages it up.

A physician says that worry makes people thin, but it does not seem to affect fat women who worry over their fatness.

With the souvenir postal card in such general use, and the mail trains running regularly, the public will not be seriously inconvenienced by the telegraphers' strike.

One of the transcontinental railroads reports increased net earnings of $935,000 for May. Glimpses of a silver lining to rate regulations are frequent.

Verdict for Dr. Pierce

AGAINST THE Ladies' Home Journal.

Sending truth after a lie. It is an old maxim that "a lie will travel seven leagues while truth is getting its boots on," and no doubt hundreds of thousands of good people read the unwarranted and malicious attack upon Dr. R. V. Pierce and his "Favorite Prescription" published in the May (1904) number of the Ladies' Home Journal, with its great black display headings, who never saw the humble, groveling retraction, with its inconspicuous heading, published two months later. It was boldly charged in the standard and libelous article that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, for the cure of women's weaknesses and ailments, contained alcohol and other harmful ingredients. Dr. Pierce promptly brought suit against the publishers of the Ladies' Home Journal, for $200,000.00 damages.

Dr. Pierce alleged that Mr. Bok, the editor, maliciously published the article containing such false and defamatory matter with the intent of injuring his business; furthermore, that no alcohol, or other poisonous, or habit-forming, drugs are, or ever were, contained in his "Favorite Prescription"; that said medicine is made from active medicinal roots and contains no harmful ingredients whatsoever; and that Mr. Bok's malicious statement were wholly and absolutely false. The retraction printed by said Journal, they were forced to acknowledge that they had published a libelous article, and that they were sorry for it. The Supreme Court of the United States, in the trial of the action in the Supreme Court. But the business of the Supreme Court is the publication of the libelous article with its great black display headings, while hundreds of thousands who read the vilely defamatory article never saw the humble groveling retraction, set in small type and made as inconspicuous as possible. The matter was, however, before a jury in the Supreme Court of New York State which promptly rendered a verdict in the doctor's favor. Thus his traducers came to grief and their base slanders were refuted.

Uncle Sam's two big battle ships just contracted for will be larger and more heavily armed than the Dreadnaught. They are to be completed within three years. The American navy will be kept up to the mark as a peace preservative.

Notwithstanding the great variation in the length of daylight in the arctic regions, the war department has decided that the 8-hour law must be applied as elsewhere even in connection with the building of roads and other public works.

That it is never too late to learn is signally illustrated in the case of Miss Mary E. Van Dyne of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., who, though 65 years old, has been during the last school year a student at Vassar college. She has been taking a special course, and has been classified as a freshman, being supposedly the oldest freshman in the country. It is said that Miss Van Dyne was eager in her younger days to enter Vassar, but for financial reasons was unable to do so. Some time ago her fortunes improved, and she carried out the ambition of her youth.

Litigation Over The United Verde

A New York dispatch says: By a decision of Judge Amend, special sessions of the supreme court, ex-senator William A. Clark must account for all the dealings of the United Verde Copper company, involving the sum of more than $300,000,000. The decision comes after eight years litigation, as the result of a suit brought by George A. Treadwell, for the minority stockholders.

According to Charles W. Demond, counsel for Mr. Treadwell, the investigation which the court orders will show that Senator Clark now derives an income of $25,000,000 a year from United Verde, much of which, Mr. Demond says, should have been turned over to Treadwell.

Judge Amend, in his ruling, says that the sale of the property of the United Verde Copper company to a reorganization committee for $500,000,000, was illegal, and that the property shall revert to the original stockholders. This sale, according to Treadwell, was made for the purpose of freeing him out, for the reason that his 620 shares, instead of being rated at $500 a share, which he says is their value, would be valued at only about $3 a share.

Arizona Sheep Hold Their Own

Arizona sheep got into the Kansas City market a little later than usual but they have held the center of the stage ever since. From June 24 to 27 inclusive representative sales of 10,884 were reported. Arizona contributed 7,394 of them. The rest came from various points in New Mexico, Utah, Colorado and Texas. The Arizona shippers were the Hansen company of Flagstaff, Yeager of Flagstaff and Schuster of Winslow. The Arizona sheep also led in price, ranging from $5 to $6.

Society Novelty Was a Coon

The recent denouncement of Antonio Apache, who was in Phoenix several days last winter and who claims to be an Indian and is pronounced by William M. Cary and Edwin W. Deming to be a negro, it was learned was due to his name being offered membership in the Campfire club in New York. It appears that at a meeting of the New York club, when Apache's name was proposed, several members who had heard the story about his having a negro father, violently opposed his election on the ground that he was an imposter, and succeeded in having him blackballed.

Apache's failure to come forward with proofs his denial, and in particular his positive declaration to submit to ready solution of the problem by allowing an examination of his hair, has largely reduced the number of his champions.

It was a few years ago that the Apache appeared in New York, and attention was drawn to him by his being a guest of Mrs. John R. Drexel, who made a lion of him at reception, which served to introduce him to the most fashionable set of Gotham.

For a time he dropped out of prominence, only to reappear in greater vogue at a ball given by Mrs. Jacob Astor.

At the latter occasion a society writer in New York wrote of the handsome stranger: "Society loves a novelty and of late it has been entertaining itself with that splendid specimen of a lost race—Antonio Apache, a blooded Indian, who has the manners of a Chesterfield, the education of a Gladstone, and the beauty of a graven image. He is a most distinguished and interesting man and his society has been sought for by the leaders of the 40s. Mrs. John R. Drexel entertained him at her box at the horse show, and he has been dined and feted by the highest. Mr. Apache dresses in the latest fashion and carries himself with impressive dignity."

Succumbed to Alcoholic Beverages

Imagining that the wealth for which he had passed years in striving for was being taken away from him by the men with whom he had a deal on for the sale of mining claims, and imagining himself possessed of a large sum of money, together with a too close application to the booze route, are said to be the causes of the condition of a recent arrival, aged about 50, a prospector of the Paradise district, who is slightly insane. He is confined in the jail here.

The man was brought to Tombstone last night from Paradise, and in hope that some chance remained for his recovery he was kept under guard all night. This morning failed to show any improvement in this condition, however, and he was finally put in jail here to await developments in his case.

Before he was incarcerated, the man caused a great disturbance about the court house, shrieking and yelling that someone was to rob him, and curing his imaginary tormentors. The occupants of the various offices poured into the hall and great excitement prevailed for a time. He was finally quieted and persuaded to go into the jail, where he now is.

Quite recently he made arrangements, it is stated, for the sale of properties in which he is interested and has for several weeks been celebrating his approaching prosperity by a too free indulgence in liquors. The strain has proved too great for his constitution, and to this his present condition is largely ascribed.

Mexican Herder in Business for Himself

When Dan Taylor, one of the owners of the Carruthers and Taylor ranch in the Swisshells, was away from the ranch on the Fourth of July, celebrating independence day, a Mexican goat herder to whom he had entrusted the care of his goats during his absence, drove 1300 goats across the international line and so far as is known has not yet been apprehended though most of the goats have been recovered. The Mexican at last accounts was still at large and at least 300 of the goats were missing.

The matter was reported to local authorities yesterday and Ranger Sam Hayhurst notified the Mexican authorities at Agua Prieta.

When the Mexican herder reached the international line the herd became separated and most of the goats were found roaming around. When they were rounded up it was found that about 300 were missing. The Mexican is supposed to have gotten away with these.

Arizona Cantaloupes For Eastern Market

The Mesa Melon Growers' association shipped four carloads of cantaloupes Monday to H. Woods of Chicago by Wells-Fargo express. The melons will be distributed to different points in the east, where, owing to the scarcity of fruit, the extra fine quality of the Mesa melon should bring the highest price. It is estimated that from 200 to 300 cars will be shipped east this season, besides thousands of crates which will be handled locally.

From Wednesday's Daily.

A New York bank teller walked out of the door with $69,000 of the bank's money in a suit case. They call it a "defalcation." If he had taken $6.90 it would have been theft, $690 would have been robbery, if he had lifted $690,000 it would have been irregularity, and to have withdrawn $6,900,000 would have been classed as a clever bit of financing.

To Keep from Growing Old

Here's the HORTON Galvanized Rotary Washer, which takes the washday droop out of your shoulders and the careworn lines of toil from around your eyes. You do not bend your back at all with this washer—which means you will keep your youth ten years longer. You do not grind violently on a crank or jerk at a handle. The flywheel of the HORTON Washer is balanced to swing VERY easily in a continuous direction. YOU DO NOT TURN FAST, you do not turn long, for the HORTON is high geared, so that an easy motion of the wheel produces an extremely high speed within the washer.

You need not be strong to handle the machine or carry it up cellar stairs. It is very light in weight, considering its strong construction, because the tub is of galvanized metal instead of wood—cannot dry out, leak or come apart, and keeps itself sweet and clean. You will have to see this modern washer to appreciate what a blessing it is and how CLEAN it washes the clothes. The first time you are near a hardware store, ask them to show you the and then you will realize what a modern washing machine can do. In justice to yourself, don't purchase any washer until you have compared it with the Horton. If you do this you won't want the other machine.
